I.INTRODUCTION

Successful human resource should identify human resource needs in the organization. Recruitment is the discovering of potential candidates for actual or anticipated organizational vacancies. Or, from another perspective, it is a linking activity bringing together those with jobs to fill and those seeking job. The ideal recruitment effort will attract a large number of qualified applicants who will take the job if it is offered. It should also provide information so that unqualified applicants can self select themselves out of job candidacy; this is, a good recruiting program should attract the qualified and not attract the unqualified. This dual objective will minimize the cost of processing unqualified candidates.

According to Edwin B Flippo

Recruitment as "the process of searching for prospective employees and stimulating them to apply for the jobs in the organization."

According to Yoder

Recruitment is a process to discover the sources of manpower to meet the requirement of the staffing schedule and to employee effective measures to attracting that manpower in adequate number to facilitate effective selection of an effective workforce

Recruitment

•Recruitment is the process of attracting prospective employees and stimulating them for applying job in an organization.
•Recruitment is the process of hiring the right kinds of candidates on the right job

Recruitment and selection activity is predominantly dealt with in two fields:

·A generally prescriptive human resource management or personnel management viewpoint and

· A very technical psychology literature that focuses on the validity (absolute and relative) of different forms of recruitment techniques, such as competency modelling, interviews and various types of psychometric testing

Methods of Recruitment

There are various methods of recruitment but for the sake of simplicity, they have been categorized under two broad headings.
•Internal Recruitment
•External Recruitment

Benefits and Importance of Recruitment:

(1).Helps to create a talent pool of potential candidates for the benefits of the organization
.(2).To increases the pool of job seeking candidates at minimum cost.
(3).It helps to increase the success rate of selection process by decreasing the no of visits qualified or over qualified job applicants.
(4).Helps in identifying and preparing potential job applicants who will be the appropriate candidature for the job. (5).Finally it helps in increasing organization and individual effectiveness of various recruiting techniques and for all the types of job applicants.

Selection:

Selection is the process of picking individuals who have relevant qualifications to fill jobs in an organization. Selection is much more than just choosing the best candidate. It is an attempt to strike a happy balance between what the applicant can and wants to do and what the organization requires.

Importance of Selection:

Selecting the right employees is important for three main reasons: performance, costs and legal obligations.

Performance:
Employees with right skills will do a better job for any company and for the owner. Employees without these requisite skills or who are abrasive would not perform effectively and the company performance will suffer to a great extent. So there is a time to screen out undesirables and to choose the better and perfect candidate that can effectively contribute to company success.

Cost:
It is important because it is costly to recruit and hire employees so cost-benefit ratio have to be considered while hiring of employees in order to avoid any unnecessary wastage of money and the valuable resources .The total cost of hiring a manager could easily be 10 times as high as once one add search fees, interviewing time, reference checking, and travel and moving expenses.

Essentials and Prerequisites for Selection:

I. Picking individuals possessing relevant qualifications.

II. Matching job requirements with the profile of the candidates.

III. Using multiple tools and techniques to find the most suitable candidate suitable Of achieving success on the job.

The Process of Selection:

1. Reception

2. Screening Interview

3. Application Blank

4. Selection Tests

5. Selection Interview

6. Medical Examination

7. Reference Checks

The difference between recruitment and selection:
Recruitment is identifying and encouraging prospective employees to apply for a job and Selection is selecting the right candidate from the pool of applicants.

II. Objectives
1) The primary objective of the study is to analyze the process of Recruitment and Selection in the industries.
2) To observe the procedure to select the candidates from internal as well as from external sources in the industries

5) To study the stages of selection procedure in the industries
6) To find the reasons for accepting the offer in the respective selected industries

III. Research Methodology
Research methodology is a method to solve the research problem systematically. It involves gathering data, use of statistical techniques, interpretations and drawing conclusions about research data. Keeping in view the objectives of the study, data is collected from different sources.

The purpose of this section is to describe the methodology carried out to complete the work. The methodology plays a dominant role in any research work. The effectiveness of any research work depends upon the correctness and effectiveness of the research methodology.

IV. Data Collection
Data refers to a collection of organized information, usually the results of experience, observation or experiment, or a set of premises. This may consist of numbers, words, or images, particularly as measurements or observations of a set of variables.

V. Data Sources
There are two types of data sources available to the research processes. 1. Primary data. 2. Secondary data.
3) To find out the various recruitment sources used by the selected industries.

1. Primary Data

The primary data is collected by using primary methods such questionnaires, interviews, observations etc. For this study questionnaires are used to collect primary data from the employees of the industries.

We know relatively little on a systematic basis about how or why organizations choose to use different combinations of these strategies, though some of the results reported in the study of recruitment and selection and in large firms offers some pointers that are worthy of further exploratory research, particularly among small and medium sized organizations. Nowadays employees suggests that personality tests are now being routinely used for some occupations in 19 per cent of

4) To study the employee satisfactory level with the existing recruitment policy in the industry.

workplaces, and performance tests are being used in Recruitment and selection in 46% of workplaces. Personality testing seems to be concentrated in larger workplaces and used upon professional, managerial, and sales staff; and performance testing concentrated again in larger workplaces but used for professional and administrative staff. Among the sample of large employers the overall relative ranking of importance of different skill/suitability Assessment methods was as follows:

1. Interview
2. Work experience
3. Performance/competency test
4. Qualifications
5. Assessment center
6. Personality/aptitude test

2. Secondary Data:-

Secondary data is collected from various Journals, books, websites, Government reports, News papers, and other research reports.

references are one of the most reliable source of hiring the new employees and also to some extent portals, but before hiring from portals the references provided there are need to be confirmed as I did during my training period.

•The most important feature in company's recruitment &selection policy is that we need to take in consideration the ratio between the turn-up and line-up candidates, and after analysis I found it most of the employees are also holding the same opinion.

•The existing recruitment process of company is good but it has some shortcomings that is being Covered in recommendations and on overall the recruitment department has pressure on it.

•After analysis of the company selection procedure I found out the company is using quite effective method of doing selection of candidates and they always take in consideration the cost- benefit ratio which is quite important from the long perspective of hiring employees.

•The ratio of selected candidates to joining candidates is quite effective and highest in number as the employees being selected are also of the view that they are analyzed properly and effectively.

CONCLUSION
The main thing that I want to conclude firstly is that with the
